

Permanent position of In-house Legal Counsel at Medisec Ireland CLG

We have an exciting opportunity for a medico-legal advisor to join our growing team at Medisec.

Medisec is one of the leading professional indemnity insurance providers for medical practitioners in Ireland and assists its GP and consultant members whenever their professional reputation is at risk. At times that can include a clinical negligence claim for damages, involvement in a tribunal or inquest, or an ethical or disciplinary matter. We also strive to provide outstanding education to our members, help reduce risk, incidence of complaints and claims and to promote best practice in patient safety and care.

The Role

The successful candidate will:

- Advise Medisec members on the full range of medical, ethical or legal queries and dilemmas arising in day-to-day practice.
- Work with the team on risk management awareness, education and training.
- Assist members with matters relating to professional conduct and ethics.
- Assist members drafting depositions for inquests, preparing for hearings and liaise with Medisec's external legal panel.
- Keep abreast of and consider new legislation, regulation and case law.

The Candidate

You will require a strong knowledge of the medico-legal field in Ireland, have up to 5 years' PQE, excellent oral and written communication skills, empathy, confidence, an eye for detail and effective time-management.

As the role is to advise, support and assist members at a stressful time in their career, it can be emotionally and intellectually demanding. The candidate must therefore possess the ability and confidence to advise on medico-legal consequences and support our members during often difficult times in their careers.

A competitive remuneration and benefits package is on offer.
